

Brown University Postdoctoral Fellowship Training Program

Dear colleagues,

We are pleased to announce a postdoctoral research fellowship in the area of suicide prevention, based out of the Brown University Department of Psychiatry and Human Behavior - please see below for details re: this unique opportunity.

Postdoctoral Fellowship in Suicide Prevention in High Risk Populations (Primary Supervisor: Lauren Weinstock, PhD)

This postdoctoral fellowship is located in the Brown University Department of Psychiatry and Human Behavior, located on the grounds of Butler Hospital in Providence, RI.

Description of Fellowship: Supported by the NIMH- and NIJ-funded SPIRIT Trial, the aims of this clinical research fellowship are: 1) To provide the fellow with broad post-doctoral training in the area of suicide prevention research and services; 2) To provide the fellow with a strong working knowledge of issues involved in the detection and treatment of suicide risk and behaviors during vulnerable transitional periods (i.e., from jail into the community and from inpatient to outpatient treatment settings); and 3) To provide the fellow with research training and experience that will provide a foundation for entrance into a clinical research career. Fellows will participate in mentored research activities with additional protected time for didactics (including grant writing). Opportunities to obtain postdoctoral clinical hours toward professional licensure as a psychologist are also available through this fellowship.
