

University of Michigan/Ann Arbor VA postdoctoral residency training opportunities

Dear Colleagues,

A reminder about the following postdoctoral resident opportunities here at the University of Michigan:

POSTDOCTORAL RESIDENCIES IN ADULT CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY: The University of Michigan Health System - VA Ann Arbor Healthcare System (UMHS/VAAHS) Consortium in Clinical Psychology is accepting applications for residencies in our APA-accredited training program. The program follows the scientist-practitioner model and emphasizes the training and development of psychologists in a rich interdisciplinary environment who will be able to assume leadership roles in research, teaching, and clinical service. Postdoctoral residents participate in a core curriculum, evidence-based clinical training, and focused mentored research in a range of areas including mood disorders; women's mental health; sleep disorders and health psychology; anxiety and related disorders (e.g., posttraumatic stress disorder); substance use disorders; psychotic disorders; primary care mental health integrations; and mental health recovery. For the 2017-2018 training year, we anticipate acceptance of four fellows into the consortium: 1 UMHS adult resident, 2 VAAHS adult residents, and 1 VAAHS adult women's mental health resident. Residencies are for one year, but opportunities for a second year of training are available in the UMHS part of the Consortium. Applicants must have completed an APA-accredited doctoral program in Clinical Psychology and predoctoral internship by August 2017 to be considered. The stipend for 1st year residents is currently $45,913. Second year residents earn $48,395. Benefits include vacations, sick leave and options for health insurance. We especially invite and encourage applications from members from underrepresented groups. The University of Michigan and the Department of Veterans Affairs are non-discriminatory/affirmative action employers. For up-to-date information and application materials, see the Consortium Web Page (<http://www.psych.med.umich.edu/education/psychology/clinical-adult/>). Deadline for applications is December 16, 2016. For further information about opportunities in the consortium, contact J. Todd Arnedt, Ph.D., UMHS Training Program Director (tarnedt@med.umich.edu) or Jamie Winters, Ph.D., VAAHS Training Program Director (Jamie.Winters@va.gov).

Appreciate if you could pass along to any interested trainees.

Best,
Todd Arnedt
